PRINCIPALS CORNER

Dear Kelly Mill Families,

When we think about students and reading instruction, we also think about how students do actually improve in reading. It is important that the reader is aware of the specific area to improve and specific ways to do so.

Each reader should start with, "I'm becoming a better reader by... (making sure that I read daily, read a variety to types of text, understanding that I need to periodically stop and ask questions like, do I know the main character, is the story being told from the character's point of view or the author's point of view?)

Sincerely,
Ron
